Interiors full of style

Interior details are crucial to how the entire space is perceived. Choosing the right finishing materials affects not only aesthetics, but also the durability and functionality of the design. Modern interiors demand solutions that combine style with practicality, allowing for quick and striking makeovers.

The perfectmatch

Modular panels are a mineral-polymer composite combining modern aesthetics with durability and strength. As a result, the panels are ideal for everyday use. Their installation is quick and simple, requiring no specialized tools. XL decorative panels as well as S and M slat panels can form a harmonious whole when combined, but work equally well on their own.

Technology

The panels are manufactured using MPC (Mineral Polymer Composite) technology, based on a layered functional structure. A central role is played by a high-density composite core enriched with mineral components.

The panels can be installed in areas with increased humidity. However, continuous contact with water should be avoided (e.g. under the shower).
